Portrait Photography Terms and Conditions for the Natural History Museum of Utah

The Natural History Museum of Utah at the Rio Tinto Center allows private portrait photography on Museum premises. The Museum defines portrait photography to include wedding, engagement, family portraits or other posed portraiture of individuals by professional photographers or by amateurs acting in the role of a professional. Museum premises includes all public areas inside the building, as well as all terraces, both located in the front and sides of the building, as well as the sidewalks leading to the front entrance. If you do not receive prior approval, we will ask your group to cease the photography session.

To schedule a photography session, please fill out the Contact Form, located under the Related Links in the Portrait Photography section.

You will need to purchase a Portrait Photography Permit for non-exclusive use of the Museum for $100 for each three-hour session, which includes the admission fee for the client, photographer and one assistant, however it does NOT include admission to browse Museum galleries or special exhibits. Photographers and clients are limited to shooting in public areas of the Museum. Fee for the session is due upon arrival before filming can begin.
